

SAGE GODREI

ACTOR WRITER PRODUCER

Sage has completed a Bachelor of Arts in Media Studies with Acting electives at Murdoch University, Perth, W.A

TUTORS: Kim Krejus and Howard Fine who have had direct study with Uta Hagen. She is one to take risks, explore boundaries and use her energy and intuition to give the director what they want. More recently her acting training has been under Ira Seidenstein (ex-NIDA coach) who uses the technique of clowning to re-discover Shakespeare with the use of some of his personally devised mechanics.

2016 saw Sage play Lord Clifford in a rehearsed read with props, of Shakespeare's "Margaret of Anjou" directed by Anna Kamarelli of Shakespeare20Score. She also played a variety of characters in a creative development of new work "Ordinary Sin" by Company of Rogues. Having an ability for accents and a transformative aspect about her acting, Sage played several roles in Archway1 Theatre's show "Sunday Morning in the South" by Georgia Douglas Johnson, in 2015. In 2014, Sage's most notable performances were for Mongrel Mouth's immersive production "The Age of Entitlement" as part of The Rocks Village Bazaar and Alex Broun's "Oneness: A Voice Without Form" which was performed in The Playhouse, Sydney Opera House.
